Quiet On The Set

The year passed by so quickly. Every day was filled with precious events to add to a long list of memories. Spliced together, these priceless moments were like a reel of film consisting of many single frames. Each one catching only a brief second of time . . . a smile . . . a locker being opened for the first time . . . a quick drink of water between periods . . . a class ring . . . a new friendship . . . a touchdown scored . . . a hand shake . . . an A in chemistry . . . a prayer . . . but each was important to the entire film. The single days all fit together in a sequence and completed a year of learning, loving, and growing for the students of SJCC. These intricate experiences brought them new knowledge, new friends and new insights into their lives.

Lights, Camera, Action!

The Curtain opened on August 27th at 8:00 a.m. The actors were anxious for the cameras to begin shooting. Auditions were scheduled by the senior advisors to help set the scenes for the year . . . homecoming . . . the play . . . yearbook drive . . . senior retreat . . . and the final scene, graduation. With the whole cast working together, these scenes were to be big successes. It had taken four long years, but the seniors had finally gotten their act together. Each new day brought them a strengthening of faith both in God and in themselves. They were sure, that with God as their director and with the underclassmen supporting them, the movie they produced would be an award winner.

Keep
The Cameras Rolling

With the cameras rolling, the freshmen never missed a cue. They were always carrying piles of books, always early for their first period class and always last in the lunch line. The sophomores were finally entering the scenes, noticed and on time; while the juniors, leading the freshmen and sophomores in experience, filled out the ranks for a cast of hundreds. On the set of each classroom, the scenes changed from day to day, although the actors remained the same throughout the year.

Cut!
Print It

The teachers and coaches also made appearances on the sets of each classroom and playing field, producing support and direction during times of disillusion. With their help, they gave every production a glimmer of hope for an academy award nomination. Occasionally they also produced an emotional let down in the form of a referral or a detention. These latter actions were sometimes necessary in order to keep the productions running smoothly.

PERFORMANCES

The student body's performances of this year made up an important segment of the award winning movie. This segment, Student Life, hit the screen filled with brilliant colors and unlimited energies. With special effects and tricky camera shots, the scenes changed quickly from the Looney Tunes of homecoming to the rock & roll of 50's day and with only a few required retakes. Each unique scene was special because it contained many if not all of the essential qualities of a good movie, (love, sorrow, suspense, happiness and action.) This part of the film will long be remembered by the viewers and will certainly never be forgotten by the performers.

"The Homecoming"

For St. Joseph's 10th homecoming the seniors voted in the the theme of Looney Tunes and for the next four weeks the names Tweety Bird, Bugs Bunny and Roadrunner were constantly heard throughout the school.

The week long celebration of homecoming was filled with many exciting activities. The spirit club started the week off by selling football pennant buttons, which helped to raise the spirit of the school. The student council kept the spirit alive by sponsoring two flag football games: one between the seniors and the juniors and one between the freshmen and the sophomores. Later the championship game between the seniors and the sophomores was won by the sophomores.

With the long and frantic hours of work on the three floats the week seemed to fly by. Soon it was Thursday, Color Day. The colors of red, white and gray dominated the halls and classrooms as eacho student dressed up in the colors of SJCC. More work was added to the load Thursday night as the classes decorated their halls in preparation for Friday.

Friday, the day before the big game, was especially filled with enthusiasm. First of all, it was a senior dress up day. As the seniors and the underclassmen entered the school they were awe struck by the hall decorations which had been done the night before by a handful of their classmates. The freshman hall received the majority of votes and took the honor of best decorated hall.

In the afternoon the homecoming assembly was held, highlighted by the announcing of the king and queen and their court. With the court and the rest of the student body looking on, skits were performed by each of the classes. The freshmen had the Streak team destroy the Senecas, the juniors performed a Fantasy Island spin-off while the seniors held a Mr. America contest. The sophomores, acting out a humorous poem, won the prize for the most creative skit.

The singing and cheering at the biggest pep rally of the year was so intense that even the visiting eighth graders had to join in. After the assembly the students were psyched and ready for Saturday night's game.

"The Main Event"

The theme of the homecoming dance was Precious Reflections and those who attended the Sunday night event recalled the memories of the past four weeks. The Looney Tune characters on the walls, the fountain and the streamers provided a beautiful setting for the students to dance to the music of the "Blue Stones". For the first time the dance was held away from SJCC, at the Sacred Heart auditorium. Mark McKinney and Kathy Oprie were crowned king and queen and then shared the queen's dance. The dance was a beautiful way to end the long, sometimes tiring celebration of homecoming.

Come On Along And "Paint Your Wagon"

Students began assembling in the St. Joe parking lot early Saturday evening. The homecoming parade to Harmon Sadium began shortly after 7:00 p.m. The Streak band led the way through town, followed by the cheerleaders, floats, student body and many cars honking their horns. The cheers shouted along the way were picked up by some of the well wishers lining the route. Everyone awaited the half time announcement of the winning float. The senior's Tweety Bird, Sylvester the Cat, Granny and the Bulldog won the competition. The juniors' float placed second and in third place was the sophomores' float. The judges decision was a hard one to make since all three of the floats showed great amounts of hard work and planning.

The Oscar Winners

St. Joseph students really piled up the awards this year and many others attended seminars of every kind: Lisa Kindt was voted St. Joseph's choice for Outstanding Junior in May 1979 and won a book scholarship for her freshman year. Fred Busack traveled throughout Europe during the summer playing his trombone with the American Youth Symphony and came back in late August to play in the Ohio State Fair Band. Mike Dees was also at the Ohio State Fair, singing in the choir. Carol Maier and Lori Darr attended Buckeye Girls' State at Capitol University in July, while at the same time Matt Barron and Dave Chamberlain attended Buckeye Boys' State at BGSU. During August Monica McDermott attended the National Junior Achievement Conference held in Bloomington, Indiana as one of the five representatives from Fremont. Kansas City, Missouri was the site of the National CYO Convention this year which Mark Dickman and Mike Foos attended during November. Findlay College sponsored the Northwest Ohio Computer Games Contest and SJCC had the winning team: Helen Chudzinski, Michele Raths, Julie Provenzale, Toni Root and Carolyn Werner. Several yearbook members attended seminars during the summer; Co-Editors Lisa Light, Amy Spieldenner, assistant editor Laura Foos, and photographer Renee Eberly went to Oakland University while Theresa Ochs and Anne Poorman attended Kent State school of journalism. Lori Darr, Carol Maier, Fred Busack and Doni Paradiso won the 1979 American Legion Government Test given to all St. Joseph seniors.

"Breaking Away" From The Routine

The monotony of school life was broken up by a wide variety of assemblies and pep rallies during the year. From the beginning of the year, the students were treated to pep rallies about every two weeks. Each was to honor a different team and to psyche the student body for an upcoming game. The first assembly was given by Mr. Jack Kawasaki from Junior Achievement. Later that month, Mary Krause of Athena Productions brought her version of "Shakespeare's Ladies" to St. Joe. She employed several students in her presentation. The student council sponsored an energy assembly given by Jack Thorn of Atomic Energy Commission. The students were taught valuable lessons in energy conservation. Several dress-up days were also held including movie dress-up day, sponsored by the yearbook staff, and a clown day sponsored by the cheerleaders, and leprechaun dress-up day sponsored by the student council.

"Grease" Is The Word

Once again it was time for poodle skirts, leather jackets and saddle shoes to rule the scenes at SJCC; but this year, 50's day had a new twist to it. Fremont's radio station, WFRO, got involved and started off a complete day of rock and roll music at 6:30 a.m. WFRO became involved to help psyche up the Streaks for their game against 4th ranked St. Mary's. While at school, guys and their sweethearts strolled through the halls to the sounds of "Rock Around The Clock" and "Rockin' Robin". Many of the girls could have been seen all day long in front of a mirror fixing their pony tails or putting on bright red lipstick. Most of the guys showed up with their shades, T-shirts, leather jackets and most important of all, their greased hair. During lunch, many students took part in a hula-hoop contest, which was won by Cathy Ronski, over strong competition from Coach Jim O'Connell.

WFRO sent sports reporter Jerry Riedling for live coverage of the afternoon pep rally which was the main scene of the day. First shouts of "Big G-little o, go, go!" echoed through the gym and then the guys took over as cheerleaders. Dressed as girls, they provided many laughs for the student body. Senior greaser, Ron Durnwald won the goldfish eating contest, while fellow classmate Scott Zienta, dressed in his leather jacket and chains won the best dressed male award. Freshman Therese Cimini in her poodle skirt and pony tail was named best dressed girl. The seniors really hopped and bopped to the band's rendition of "Rock Around The Clock" which brought an end to a very spirited 50's day.

Spirit Directors

The spirit of the St. Joseph Central Catholic cheerleaders has shone many times at various area camps and throughout this school year. The varsity attended the camp at Walden Woods, Michigan, and received a fifth place over all. Later, attending the Grand Nationals at Lansing, Michigan, they placed fifth in their pom pom and skit routines. This was the first time SJCC cheerleaders have ever placed at the Nationals. The girls also were named the overall champions at the Ohio State clinic.
Under the direction of Captain Lauretta Miller, the cheerleaders provided many enthusiastic pep rallies and various other activities throughout the year to keep SJCC's spirit high.

"All That Jazz" Of The Past Year

Some of the events of the past year have divided the world, while others have helped to unite it. As people flocked to the theaters to watch disaster movies like "The China Syndrome" and "Airport '79", similar things were happening in the real world. Two DC-10's crashed killing hundreds of people and led to all DC-10's being grounded for inspection. A near nuclear disaster was narrowly averted at Three Mile Island, Pa. A violent storm ended the America's Cup yacht race early and eventually killed some of the racers. Eleven people died in a mad rush for the door at "The Who" concert in Cincinnati, Ohio. It could have been a scene from "Battlestar Glactica" as pieces of metal fell from space. Skylab disintegrated sending people searching everywhere for chunks to turn in for the reward. Other metals also became very valuable. Gold prices soared to over $750.00 an ounce which in turn brought silver prices up. Pre-1964 dimes became worth over a dollar and the prices for film and photographic paper doubled.

In this past year the world said good-bye to many well known and loved personalities. Among these trend setters were John (Duke) Wayne, Margaret Mead, Archbishop Fulton Sheen and Jimmy Durante. They will be missed, but their achievements will always be remembered.

Iran, led by Ayatullah Khomeini, showed its discontent over the Shah's departure to the United States by seizing the U.S. embassy and taking fifty Americans as hostages. Shortly after these events the Russians marched into Afghanistan and set up a communist government. These events further upset the balance in the Middle East and the world oil situation. While OPEC raised its prices, President Carter considered actions against the Russians. A grain embargo was imposed and American grain was to be used for gasahol in the future. There was also talk about boycotting the Summer Olympics in Moscow.

The boycott talks and a shortage of natural snow did not however have any effect on the 1980 Winter Olympics in Lake Placid, New York. The United States' performances were many times brilliant and some times terribly disappointing. The Hockey team defeated Russia and Finland to remain unbeaten and win the gold. Speed skater Eric Heiden won every event he entered and he broke Olympic and world records on his way to 5 gold medals. Among the other U.S. winners were Charlie Tickner a bronze, Linda Fratianne a silver and Beth Heiden a silver. East Germany took home 23 medals, Russia 22, and the United States 11. Hanni Wenzel of tiny Liechtenstein was a big individual winner with 2 golds and a silver.

While the Iranian Crisis dominated headlines for a long time other events were also taking place. Russian Ballet Star Alexander Gudonor defected to the U.S. while his wife returned to Russia. The boat people set up camp in Cambodia and strong efforts were launched to aid those refugees. A teachers' strike in Cleveland forced students to study at home for about two months. Inflation continued to rise and the Chrysler Corporation almost went bankrupt before receiving assistance from the federal government. The Susan B. Anthony dollars did not receive the warm reception the government had hoped for because they were too easily confused with a quarter. Amtrak started operation again, Margaret Thatcher became England's first woman prime minister, and Pierre Trudeau and the liberal party regained power in Canada. After three years, kidnapped businessman William Niehous returned to his home in Toledo. Israel and Egypt were on official speaking terms when Menachem Begin and Anwar Sadat signed a peace treaty at Camp David witnessed by President Carter. Pope John Paul II spoke to young and old alike during this tour of the United States. Mother Theresa won the Nobel Peace prize for her work in Calcutta, India.

Several other athletes besides the Olympic heros became popular sports personalities: Larry Bird and Magic Johnson helped raise the NBA's slumping attendance figures. Tracy Austin and John McEnroe became two of the youngest U.S. Open Tennis Winners. Willie Stargell led the Pittsburgh Pirates to the World Series title while their football counterparts, the Steelers, beat the Los Angeles Rams to become Super Bowl Champions for the third time.

The local scene also had its own dividing and uniting events. For instance, Fremont's old City Hall could no longer stand the test of time and fell to the wrecker's ball after many arguments. At the same time, the city saw a new police building completed and a new municipal building on the way to completion. Controversies at the county courthouse and city hall caused many people to take sides, but even with all of these controversies, Fremont came together to celebrate its First Oktoberfest. The Oktoberfest celebration was held at the Sandusky County fairgrounds. The people who came had a super time while listening and dancing to such stars as: Frank Yankovich, the Imperials, and the Alpenlanders. Safety Town also came to Fremont as children were given the chance to learn various safety rules. All of Fremont backed Shawn McCarthey as he won the National Punt, Pass and Kick competition at the Super Bowl.

St. Joseph Central Catholic did not really see that many drastic changes. The biggest change was the dropping of Wednesday optional Mass. A new 21 foot trophy case was added and the gym floor took on a new look with a bright red border. Seniors also received more privileges than before.

The entire year was filled with rewarding experiences never to be forgotten.

STARS

As the year began the stars showed great leadership as they arrived each morning on the set with a bundle of confidence. This leadership was displayed with pride in almost everything that the stars did. Throughout the year there were many events that helped bring them together as a cast. The retreat at Bergamo, the patron drive, and the dance-a-thon all helped to give the seniors a special togetherness that grew stronger every day. The stars experienced more than just togetherness, they also gained the wisdom to be able to make many important decisions about their future roles. By doing their best at everything they tried, the seniors remained shining stars throughout the entire year.

Seniors Steal The Scene

The year began with the second annual Josemont II patron drive. Due to the numerous contributions of the senior class, who led in school spirit, the drive was a great success.

The senior leaders who received awards for the most individual patrons were Carol Maier, Doni Paradiso, and Dave Chamberlain. Awards for the most business patrons were given to Tom Lehmann, Tim Sweeney, and Michele Raths.

The seniors, by their fine example, proved that anything can be achieved when everyone works together.

Homecoming Float A Shining Success

The homecoming was the last chance for the seniors to achieve their ultimate goal, winning the float competition. There were many long, agonizing hours put into the float to make it the best it could possibly be. There was always the possibility that the sophomores or juniors would win. However, the seniors' will power and determination was no contest for those who stood in their way. The result was the winning float. "Was it good enough?" The answer to that question was YES!

Seniors Audition For Lead Roles

As the year continued, the spirit of the seniors emerged with a flourish. In school competition, it was demonstrated by their winning of spirit contests and relay races. Out of school, their spirit showed in extracurricular activities such as club meetings, sporting events, and other time-consuming tasks. Everything they did was organized and was done with an enthusiasm unbeatable by any other class.

Seniors Capture The Spotlight

Throughout the entire year, the seniors in the business department demonstrated their skills in spectacular performances. The talent shown by the senior girls as faculty secretaries was only one fine example of their abilities to attempt what sometimes seemed impossible! Many other skills included involvement in shorthand and typing various jobs for community organizations. The tremendous effort put out by these girls can only describe the feeling of pride felt for SJCC.

Senior Retreat Creates "Close Encounters"

The seniors of 1980 were unique because they were the first to experience a 3-day retreat. It all started on the 18th of November with the opening mass at St. Casmir's.

Following the mass, everyone boarded the two buses for a long ride to Bergamo Retreat Center in Dayton, Ohio. All were overjoyed and filled with excitement to get started. Upon arriving, all students were assigned to their rooms. Terry Steinbauer, a former student of Holy Spirit Seminary, gave a talk on the search for the meaning of life. Later that night, everyone gathered in the conference room and watched the movie "Brian's Song."

Monday was the fullest day. Two fellow classmates, Lisa Light and Doni Paradiso, talked about friends and responsibility. Coach Denny Faber shared his experiences also by giving a talk on independence. Another event of the day was the formation of groups which discussed the talks. In the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Leite discussed responsibility to the family and Mrs. Myers followed with responsibility to society.

On Monday evening, Fr. Ross conducted a quiet and peaceful penance service. At 11 p.m. mass was celebrated in the chapel.

On Monday evening, two casualties resulted in Ma Marquis having to make two trips to the hospital emergency room. By 5:00 a.m. Tuesday morning only a few diehards were left to fight off the fatigue. The senior class met in the A Lounge at 9:00 Tuesday morning. The day ahead of them was filled with some different and exciting experiences. Father Skip discussed responsibility to the church. Later, Mrs. Marquis and Mr. Duwve put together a skit about their feelings concerning the retreat. It was a great day — the mass, the letters and the friendships. The retreat was closed with a mass in which it could be seen how close everyone had become.

Seniors: "Bustin' Loose"

As the school year continued, the senior class showed signs of unusual behavior. They engaged in traditional activities such as making up excuses for being tardy, skipping out for lunch during mass, picking on the seemingly innocent underclassmen, teasing the always suspicious teachers and playing practical jokes on everyone. All of these helped to relieve some of the tension placed on them in their final year of high school.

The Wild Ones

The senior class of 1980 was a wild and crazy bunch. To celebrate the success of the annual patron drive, a movie dress-up day was created. All were to portray a favorite movie character. That afternoon the stars paraded to the cinema to see "The Return of the Pink Panther." Seniors also displayed creativity on halloween and clown day. They always found a way to make everyday lively.

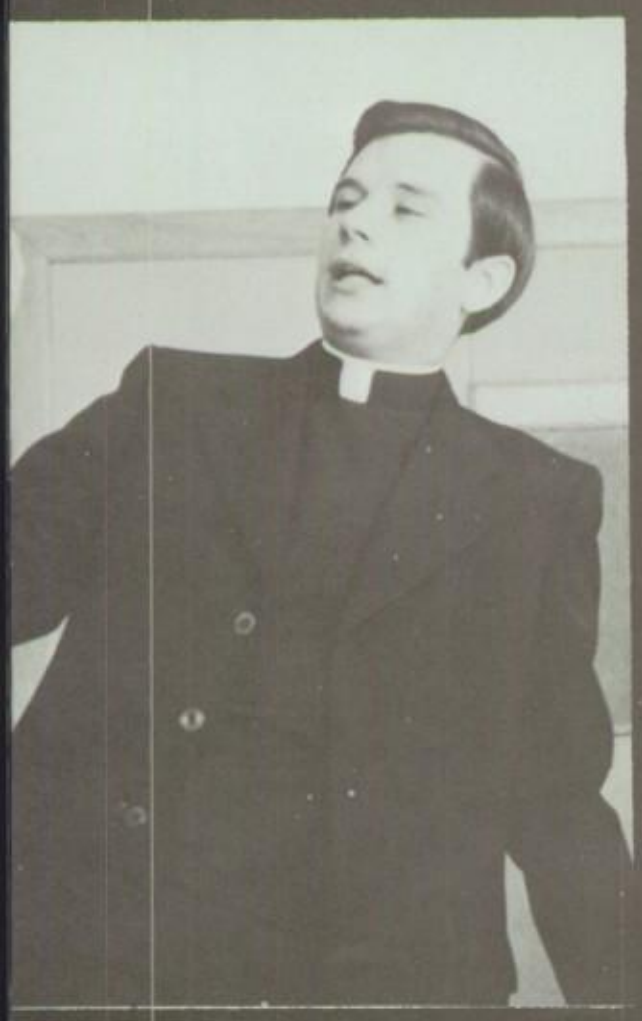
SPIRITUAL COORDINATORS

When the filming of this production started, there was something that stood out and made this movie different. It was the religion classes because they allowed the students to grow as individuals. God directed the actors and actresses through courses dealing with morality, church history, prayers and many others, including class retreats, T.E.C.'s, and volunteer work offered to the community. Strong faith kept the cameras rolling because the cast knew that Christ would light up their lives.

Ross portrayed a religion instructor who tried to teach theology to the seniors which was sometimes a difficult task. 5. At the senior retreat, the music was well planned and presented by Toni Root, Theresa Ochs, Mary Lou Orians, Lisa Yeckley, Jackie Amor, and Brenda Trevino. 6. Scott Drown takes a glance at the board to check his notes.



Learning The "Ten Commandments"

The basis of all teaching at St. Joseph focused on the religion classes. With Christ forming the foundation of the students' lives, it was found necessary to educate and inform them of their religion. Not only did this nourish their faith but also strengthened their Christian attitudes. Some religion courses took the student beyond the classroom. The seniors that had service spent their class periods helping children at the School of Hope and talking with the adults at Sandco Industry.

What is learned in the St. Joseph's religion classes does not always fade away. Although many things learned are all too soon forgotten, the love of Christ remained with them always, a firm rock on which their lives were built.

"Oh God!" Was It Great!

The highlight of the religious education at St. Joe was the retreat experienced by each class. A retreat was a special time for the students to learn and grow in their religious faith as well as develop their own personal character.

In October, the freshmen held their retreat in St. Ann's hall. To them it was rewarding to experience their first high school retreat.

The sophomores traveled to Bellevue to the Sorrowful Mother Shrine.

The juniors went to Genoa for a day and learned to experience Christ's love in a childlike way. To help them accomplish this, a few fourth graders from St. Joe went along also.

The seniors did something new this year. They spent three days in Dayton, Ohio at Bergamo Retreat Center. They gained many memories to add to their already plentiful collection and grew closer as a class.

"Heaven Can Wait" Because TEC Was Terrific!

TEC was something special, an experience to bring any junior or senior closer to understanding their loving relationship with an old friend, Jesus. To begin with, TEC stands for Teens Encounter Christ and was available during the summer and the school year. It began with a short trip to Carey on a Saturday morning and continued on through Monday and within those three days the students faced many new insights and viewed life and themselves as something precious. The happy memories collected at TEC will always remain in their hearts.

"The Sound of Music"

The opportunity to celebrate Mass during school time is another advantage St. Joseph Central Catholic has over public schools. Not only can students learn about their religion but they can also practice it. Everyone observed holy days by attending Mass as a whole and special masses were offered to enrich their awareness of Christ in their lives. Many spirited students did more than was asked of them and sang in the folk group or served mass, offering their talents and assistance.

THE SCRIPTS

One of the most important aspects of the education offered here at St. Joe was a script written from numerous fields of study. This script was taught by highly skilled directors who by their service and dedication provided the means for a quality education. Both the stars and co-stars pursued the many different paths of the script. Courses were offered in all of the basic subject areas along with advanced studies offered in math and science. The senior and junior actors who wished to follow the script in a more technical field of study had the option to transfer to Vanguard. Vanguard offered these students a chance to experiment with the facilities needed to further their chosen careers. No matter which part of the script the students pursued, they were assured a satisfying learning experience.

Creators Behind The Scenes

The Josemont II staff started off the shooting right on cue. With the screen play already decided, they were ready to start the production. Director, Gary Geller, along with co-producers, Lisa Light and Amy Spieldenner, added many interesting dimensions to the script to carry the theme of The Movies throughout the book. Special effect ideas came from executive producer Laura Foos, and the directors of photography, Matt Barron and Renee Eberly. Connie Saller and Lisa Yeckley were busy typing the script, while it was being arranged by Anna Oddo. Kay Darr was an assistant in the dark room and helped paint the scenery. The action shots during the filming were handled by Mike Reardon and Joe Florio. The sets for the stars were organized by Jackie Amor and Theresa Ochs and the fashion designers for the co-stars were Deb Dye and Lori Ochs. Liz Stetzel covered the make-up for the directors, while props for the performances were handled by Carol Maier and Anne Poorman. The construction managers for the actors guilds were Helen Chudzinski and Beth Ochs. Through everyones hard work and dedication, the deadlines were all met and a top-notched book was brought to the public with the critics' approval.

Vanguard Students Possess "Magic" Touch

As stars, the seniors who had chosen Vanguard for their final scenes, gained knowledge and experience in two ways. The first half of the year, they were at Vanguard for a full day of studies. In the second half, however, the seniors obtained on the job training by working half days in their chosen field.

Although these seniors had plenty of work to keep them busy, they still found time to participate in the scenes of their home school, SJCC. These scenes included pep rallies, retreats, athletics and their class trip. The most memorable scene though was the final one, graduation. They finally received the award they had been working for for four years.

Vanguard proved to be a very worthwhile and rewarding experience. When the seniors walked through its doors for the last time, they had the confidence that each would truely become a star in his own chosen field.

Shooting At A New Location

When their sophomore year came to an end the co-stars had a major decision to make. They could spend the next two years here at the main studio, St. Joseph Central Catholic, or move to a different backlot, Vanguard Vocational Center. On this new backlot they met many actors from different schools.

At Vanguard the students received specialized training in their chosen fields. With talented directors, interested students and super facilities the learning experiences of Vanguard were quite unique and beneficial.

This years co-stars only had five of its members at the Vanguard backlot, but each one worked to his or her potential. Their fields of study varied from agricultural mechanics to cosmotology to graphic arts. No matter what their field of study was, the experience gained at Vanguard prepared its students for their future roles in society's work force.

Artistic Illustrations Complete The Set

The students of SJCC's art department expressed themselves throughout this year in numerous creative projects. Under the guidance of Sister Mary Boniface they experimented with painting, drawing, sketching and many types of crafts. Through Sister's encouragement and advice, the students developed their talents both through their mistakes as well as their successes.

During craft class, the students were shown how to use their imagination, by Mr. Charles F. Billat, to create various things from any kind of nut. Inspired by his creativity, the craft students worked with various materials to create key chains, belts, rugs, needlepoint, and many other items. They spent much time planning and working on these projects, but in the end they found the results rewarding.

Creating Mad Scientists

The science department at SJCC had a lot to offer this year to all the students, especially those whose real interests were sparked by their first exploits in the science world.

First, required for all freshman students, was physical science taught either by Mr. Jim O'Connell, a newcomer at the school, or Coach Rick Wonderly. The students performed numerous experiments and did plenty of homework.

The next step up in the field of science was biology. Mr. Marty Smith and Mr. Jim O'Connell were the instructors for this class. The students learned many new techniques such as working with the microscope and dissecting tools.

After the completion of biology, the students were encouraged to continue their studies. Chemistry, taught by Coach Rick Wonderly, was the next challenge the students were about to face. He continuously drummed formula after formula into their heads. Chemistry proved to be a difficult year.

The fourth and final choices from the scientific field were physiology with Coach Henry Karcher, another new arrival at SJCC, and physics with Coach Rick Wonderly. Both courses were filled with long hours of difficult studies and experiments that were only for those whose interests went beyond the mere fundamentals of basic science.

There's No Business Like Show Business

In the business department activities constantly filled the classroom. The students always had a job to get done. Under the guidance of Mrs. Gabel the senior girls in secretarial practice were each assigned to a faculty member as a secretary. These girls then had the opportunity to practice their business knowledge and skills while under the pressure of getting each job done on time.

The department also offered many other courses. Among these courses taught by Mrs. Gabel, Mr. Schneider and Mrs. Schwert were typing, business machines, bookkeeping and shorthand. With the completion of these courses a SJCC student was well prepared to fill his role in the business community.

Students Taken An "Incredible Journey" Through The Past

The films of the past were stored in the history department at S.J.C.C. Each of the classes viewed a different time and culture. The films in stock included those from American history, Ohio history, civics, world history and Indian archeology. Technical advisors, Mr. Wm. Smith, Sister M. Victor, Mrs. Diane Smith, Miss Patty Hill and Mr. Gary Geller, saw to it that the actors had a clear understanding of their historical background.

"World's Greatest Athletes"?

Physical education class was a great means of teaching teamwork and class cooperation to all. While participating in these classes, the students learned while having a good time.

The students learned to coordinate both muscle and mind through playing volleyball, basketball, soccer, hockey, and many other sports. They were taught the rules and guided in the playing of these games by a staff of qualified coaches: Coach Fick, Coach Faber, and Coach Karcher. The teachers incorporated the importance of teamwork and good sportsmanship into their classes in order to help develop the students' physical skills as well as their mental attitudes.

"Play It Again Sam"

The musical score which composed the sound track of this year's movie was masterfully played by the SJCC Band. Under the excellent direction of Mrs. Barb Specht and with many long hard hours of practice behind them, the band put on one spectacular show after another. The band co-starred in every pep rally, football and basketball game and even provided the music for the senior class play. They also starred in three major concerts throughout the year.

Individual band members competed in contests where they were rated by a professional. The professionals also gave them tips on how to improve their musical talents. To everyone who participated in band it was an unforgettable experience and to everyone who heard them it was delightful.

"The French Connection"

The task of learning the script in French or Spanish was not an easy one, but under the direction of Miss Borkovich the actors mastered their tasks. Besides just mastering the complexities of another language, they also became acquainted with the foods and customs of France, Spain and Mexico. A Mass in French and one in Spanish were planned and celebrated during the shooting of the foreign language scenes.

BOTTOM RIGHT: Shelley Huether concentrates on remembering the correct verb tense and spelling as she begins her Spanish test.

"Meatballs" Again?

In the home economics department the students were always working hard on some new fashion design or an unusual creation of cookery. Under the direction of the head home economist, Mrs. Marquis, many aspiring young chefs learned the essentials for preparing a well balanced meal. If the lessons were well learned the meals were fun to prepare and even more fun to devour. There were also seamstresses hard at work in Room 103. Although their fashion originals were never shown in Paris, they were proudly worn by their creators.

TOP LEFT: Rona Mumford and Brian Knopp wonder if eating their own creations is such a good idea after all.

"The Computer Wore Tennis Shoes"

All of the actors of this year's production had some contact with the field of mathematics. From basic math for the newest co-stars up to Math IV for the stars, math played an important part of their lives.

The directors for the mathematical scenes were Mr. Reineck, Mr. Geller and Mr. Hotz. Under their supervision the students were challenged to grasp and understand proofs, trigonometry, equations and even the beginnings of calculus. For the hard working student these challenges were met and will be very useful experiences for their future roles in society.

Talented Authors Write The Script

The English department offered a wide variety of courses to help improve the students' skills in all the related English fields. It all started with English I, taken by all the freshmen. This course was aimed at improving the students' grammar and vocabulary.

Next was sophomore English where the students began their study of literature, but also continued in their investigation of correct grammar.

The third year of English turned juniors into authors. Many excellent, creative papers were written in Writing I and Composition I. The juniors also got their first look at American literature during this year.

The final year of English was a polishing year. Seniors refined their writing skills in preparation for their future roles. They also had the choice of studying English literature or taking another English elective, such as drama or speech. With the completion of these four years of training, the seniors knew that the script they had written was letter perfect.

CO-STARS

The co-stars of this year caught on quickly to their requirements and played their roles well. Through the guidance and example of the stars themselves, the co-stars displayed outstanding spirit and enthusiasm towards scholastic and extracurricular activities. The juniors were one step away from the leading roles and their confidence in themselves and each other was continually building. The sophomores too were beginning to feel at ease. New faces were becoming good friends and they were starting to get their act together. Finally, the newest group of co-stars were the freshmen. Being in a strange school with unfamiliar people wasn't easy but they adapted well and made the most of a fun filled year.

Juniors Co-Star In Award Winning Movie Of The Year

The producers called for quiet on the set. In this part of the award-winning Movie of The Year, the CO-STARS were introduced. The spotlights fell on the street where the STARS had been introduced just moments before. There were excited whispers among the crowd, which soon turned into a deafening round of applause as the juniors pulled up in their newly-acquired Cadillacs and limousines. Because juniors had co-starred in many movies in the past three years, the public accepted them as part of the Award-Winning Movie making industry. Now, they are better prepared for their future roles as the STARS next year.

Understudies Set The Stage For Their Premiere Appearance

Eager to become the STARS of next year, the juniors rehearsed their performances to the best of their abilities. They stole the scene while fulfilling their roles as concessionaires at the home football and basketball games. Convinced by their brilliant acting, one could almost taste the hot-buttered popcorn and smell the aroma of lean, juicy hot dogs. The selling of popcorn and hot dogs by the juniors may have seemed like a rerun of the movie great, "The Greatest Show on Earth."

Co-Stars Sail On The "Ship Of Fools"

The junior class returned for their second encore, and after taking their bows, they walked with dignity off the set. The productions of this year rewarded them well and the applause they received was greatly deserved. Their loyal fans looked up to them and admired them. Because their performance was unique and original, it could not be copied by any other class.

The juniors stepped off the set to make room for the sophomore performance. The houselights dimmed, the whispers were hushed, and the sophomores began.

Sophomores Take A Step Up In the "Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" Of Show Biz

After the juniors were ushered away, the crowd again turned to the street to see who would step into the spotlight next. The anxious crowd didn't have long to wait because just then, right on cue, the sophomores strolled into the spotlight proudly. During the course of the year, the sophomores became more famous for the roles they played. Producers were constantly calling on them to play various parts because of their magnificent talents. In fund-raising, participation at pep rallies and overall enthusiasm at school, the sophomores excelled. No Acting Lessons Needed By Sophomores

As they grew more locally known, the sophomores' talents began to widen. With their growing confidence they tackled harder jobs. They looked back upon the roles that they played last year and their importance in the cast. It seemed as though they had skyrocketed to fame. This year their roles proved to be more of a challenge to them, and after their scene was shot they felt even more fulfilled for their movie performance was a success.

Soon after the sophomores left the set, the crowd began to quiet down and turned to walk away, expecting no more CO-STARS. Much to their surprise, into the spotlight marched the freshmen sporting their brand-new, custom-made fashions of blue, gray and white. Though their faces were new and unfamiliar to the crowd, by their performance they were immediately welcomed into the family of CO-STARS.

Inexperienced though they were, the freshmen showed a tremendous amount of ability and potential. They were determined to be the most memorable freshman class ever to attend St. Joe. The youngest of the co-stars defied the typical freshman reputation by being unafraid to show their enthusiasm at pep rallies and their leadership in performing class duties.

By rebelling against this old reputation, the freshman added a new dimension to St. Joe's already well-known spirit. They were indeed the littlest rebels.

Freshman Talent Discovered When "A Star Is Born"

Upon their arrival, the freshman class was looked upon with interest and curiosity. Towards the middle of their careers, their newness had worn off and their now familiar faces had begun to appear throughout the school in various productions. Their participation in these productions earned them the title of "Most-Sought After", given to them by the directors. The end of their freshman stardom was rapidly approaching and they knew that their roles as freshman co-stars were about to end. However, they looked forward to the many other productions they would act in as sophomores.

Underclass Receives Standing Ovations From Their Audiences

All the directors agreed that the co-stars had grown in maturity, education, and love during the course of this year. The freshmen soon became wise to the ways of the sophomores; who had taken lessons from the juniors.

More and more, the co-stars participated in dress-up days, extracurricular activities, contests and school seminars. This increased participation showed the deep school spirit that was enkindled in the students at SJCC.

ACTION SHOTS

The sports scenes were very rewarding. With expert guidance, the talented athletes were lead through many hard fought and unforgettable contests. The teams were loaded with unity, good sportsmanship and unbeatable spirit.

The audience was filled with many of St. Joe's spirited fans, who helped bring alive the many actors and actresses who were top-ranking athletes. The performers tried their best and never let their audiences down. Each performance was packed with unlimited effort and enthusiasm, making the outcome, whether it was victory of defeat, something each participant could be proud of.

Streaks Win Six Out of "10"

The Fremont St. Joseph Crimson Streaks' opening game against Wauseon ended in disappointment. The inexperienced Streak offense could only generate 87 total yards, while the defense yielded 177. "Not hitting and too many mistakes," gave Wauseon a 12-6 victory according to Coach Wonderly. St. Joe packed up their gear and headed for Oak Harbor for their next contest. The Streaks rebounded from their opening loss to defeat the Rockets 27-21 and even their record at 1-1.

Streaks Rip The "Paper Tiger"

A heavily favored Gibsonburg team entered Harmon Stadium with hopes of an undefeated season. The Streak defense destroyed those hopes by playing an outstanding game and shutting out the Golden Bears 6-0.

St. Joe ruined Huron's parents night with a 33-7 thrashing of the Tigers. The Streaks scored four times in their seven first half possessions. Roger Darr piled up an amazing 266 total yards. A well executed screen pass allowed Doni Paradiso to score a brilliant 96 yard TD. The Streak line did a splendid job of blocking as the offense rolled up 458 yards.

The Streaks suffered a devistating loss in their fourth ball game. The Margaretta Polar Bears destroyed St. Joe 49-12.

Streaks Cage "The Pink Panther"

The Streaks upped their record to 4-2 by beating the St. Mary's Panthers 16-7. Roger Darr added another 100 yard game to his record. Also in that game against Sandusky, Tom Yellstrom made a super one handed catch in the end zone. "He can catch anything," said Coach Wonderly after the game.

Late in the fourth quarter Joe Florio blocked a Perkins punt and the Streaks scored a TD. This great defensive play gave St. Joe a chance for another win. The decision was made to go for two points and not a tie. The stubborn Pirate defense stopped the conversion attempt and defeated the Streaks 14-13.

The Streaks' record fell to 4-4 when the Senecas of Tiffin handed them their only shutout of the season. St. Joe had a few opportunities to score, but the game ended 20-0.

St. Joe traveled to Clyde for their fifth victory. Clyde being winless had hopes of an upset, but the Streaks were not to be denied. The final score was 18-6.

The Streaks ended the season with a victory by beating Fostoria St. Wendelin 26-14. This being the seniors last game made them play with great enthusiasm and spirit.

St. Joe finished 4th in the conference with a 3-3 record and 6-4 overall.

Volleyballers Set The Scene

With seven letter-winners back from last years 11-6 team, the St. Joe volleyball team had high hopes for a great season. After losing four of their first six matches, the Streaks finished strong by winning six of their eight remaining matches. The eight seniors led the team throughout the year, although the four juniors helped give Coach Jill Fick a strong bench. The team finished third in the S.B.C. with a 7-5 record and a 8-6 record overall.

This year marked the first time for a St. Joe Invitational Volleyball Tournament. On Saturday, October 13, Fremont Ross and Toledo Central Catholic came to the St. Joe gym to play the first match of the tournament. It took Ross three games to beat a strong Central team, moving Ross into the finals. In the next match, the Streak team faced an always tough Danbury-Lakeside team. St. Joe battled the undefeated Lakers right to the end, before bowing out in the third game. Danbury went on to beat Ross in the final. Fremont Mayor Richard Maier then presented Danbury with the first place trophy.

Streaks Finish With Winning Performances

The highlight of the year for the volleyball team had to be the sectionals. The Streaks drew second seeded Norwalk St. Paul. They had already played them once this year and were beaten soundly, but the Streaks came out with revenge and beat St. Paul in two straight games, 15-7, 17-15. St. Joe then had to play top seeded New London in the finals. After losing the first game 15-9, the Streaks came back to win the next two games 15-5, 15-9. That win put the St. Joe girls into the district tournament. There they had to play a tough Mansfield Christian team. Mansfield beat the Streaks in two straight games 15-3, 15-4. Though the overall record didn't show it, Coach Fick said that this year's team was the best she's ever coached at St. Joe.

Cross Country Team Races For An Oscar

The St. Joe cross country team had its best season ever. Led by seniors Tom Frederick and Chris Price, the team finished the year with a record of 9-5, marking the first winning season ever. The streaks finished 5th overall at the S.B.C. meet and 8th in the sectionals. Tom Frederick qualified for the district meet by finishing 5th at the sectional. He also qualified for the state meet by finishing 17th at the district meet. Frederick finished in 28th place at the state meet.

Also, a new school record was set by sophomore Dick Ransom with a time at 13:09. This year's team was divided into separate girls, reserve and varsity teams. With twenty underclassmen, next year's team looks very promising.

Members of the cross country team are: (Sitting) Julie Fisher, Christy Sidell, Ruth Ochs, Sue Ackerman, Cheryl Kuzma, Theresa Quaintance, Chris Reineck and Lisa Luc. (Kneeling) Tim Foos, Rob Slater, Mike Foos, Chuck Setzler, Steve Zienta, Andy Miller and Frank Trevino. Golfers Swing Into Action

Second-year Coach Jerry Schneider summarized this years edition of St. Joe golf in just one word, inexperience. With only one returning letterman back from last year's team, Coach Schneider was forced to use many freshmen and sophomores throughout the season. Third year letterman, Brian Knopp, led the young Streaks through a tough year. He and Carl Durnwald were the lone seniors on this years team. This year also marked the first time St. Joe had girls participating in golf. In the sectionals St. Joe battled against the cold and wind and finished in sixth place.

They, therefore, did not qualify for the district tournament. The Streaks ended the season with a 0-12 conference record and a 4-17 record overall.

Members of the reserve golf team: (Sitting) Julie Porczak and Kathy Daubel. (Standing) Barney Cruz, Dan Gedert, Brian Tiell and Coach Jerry Schneider.

Cagers Ride "Up The Down Staircase"

The boys' basketball season started out with a unique game. On November 30, the reserve team played a group of St. Joe Alumni from the years of 1969-1974. The varsity played an Alumni team from 1975-1979. Although the reserve team lost, the varsity beat the Alumni with a fine performance. The team seemed quite ready for their first game.

As it turned out, however, the Streaks were not as ready as they thought. The Gibsonburg Golden Bears put on a fourth quarter spurt to beat St. Joe 67-62. The Streaks traveled to Perkins that same week. They rebounded to post a 61-56 double overtime win. The next week St. Joe went to Clyde. The team seemed sluggish throughout the contest as Clyde won 56-54 in overtime.

New Riegel came to the St. Joe gym for the Streaks first home game. St. Joe played a fine first half. However, that wasn't enough as New Riegel left with a 77-66 victory. St. Joe came back the next night to beat St. Paul, 85-78. Over the holidays, the Streaks split two games. Port Clinton beat St. Joe 68-66 but the Streaks beat St. Wendelin 66-56. St. Joe finished the first half of the season against Margaretta and St. Mary's. The Streaks lost both games however. St. Joe was now 3-6 overall and 1-3 in the conference.

Boys Try To "Fast Break" Through The Season

The second half of the season didn't get any better for the Streaks. After getting beat by St. Mary's, St. Joe proceeded to lose their next three games. The Streaks halted that skid however, when they played Clyde for the second time. The cagers played a fine game in beating Clyde 72-63. Ken Swint paced the Streaks with a Career high of 28 points.

St. Joe couldn't keep on the winning track as they again lost three straight games. The Streaks played the best game of the season against Huron and defeated them 64-48. The team was disappointed with their season as they expected to do much better.

The outlook for next year appears to be bright with six juniors returning to the varsity. St. Joe finished the season with a 3-9 conference record and a 6-14 record overall.

Future Stuntmen

The St. Joe wrestlers started off the season with a tough match against defending S.B.C. champs Sandusky St. Mary's. The streaks lost some early matches but came on strong only to fall short of a victory. The score was 36-24 in favor of St. Mary's. St. Joe rebounded after that match to beat both Fostoria and Genoa in a triangular meet. After those victories the streaks traveled to Port Clinton for an invitational. The wrestlers came home with the first place crown for the fourth time. St. Joe then went on to win their own invitational for the sixth time. The streaks came back after the invitationals to split a triangular meet. St. Joe beat Mohawk, 33-15, but lost to New London, 14-40. A strong Huron team then beat St. Joe 32-28, in a close match. Halfway through the season, the streaks were 3-3 in meets, and 2-0 in tournaments.

Wrestlers Play The Role of "Superman"

St. Joe traveled to Clyde for their next exciting match. The Streaks pulled out the match with four pins in the last four matches. Jeff Hoffman, Roger Darr, Doug Courtney and David A. Foos all pinned to record the come from behind 34-31 victory. The wrestlers then won two dual matches against Port Clinton and Margaretta. St. Joe beat Port Clinton 41-21 and Margaretta 42-21. The streaks then went to Lexington for an invitational. The wrestlers didn't do as good as they hoped. They came home with a fifth place finish and no individual champions. The S.B.C. was the next tournament for the streaks. The team finished in fourth place overall with two individual champions, Doug Courtney and Barney Cruz. St. Joe finished the season with a 6-3 record.

Girls Audition Under New Director

The St. Joe girl's basketball team had high hopes of a great season. With eight returning letter winners and new head coach Rich Hotz, the girls were anxious to get started. The Streaks started out slowly, however, losing their first four games in a row.

The girls then rebounded with a convincing 66-50 win over Clyde. The Streaks were paced by Amy Spieldenner's 31 points. St. Joe picked up win number two the next night, with a 61-43 victory over Lakota as Amy Spieldenner again lead the Streaks with 27 points. The Streaks picked up their third win in a row that same week, with a 42-35 win over Gibsonburg.

St. Joe then proceeded to lose their next two games against conference foes Margaretta and St. Mary's. These losses ended the girl's winning streak at three games. Halfway through the season the Streaks were 3-6 overall and 1-4 in conference.

Girls Perform "One on One"

The Streak girls started off the second half of the season with a fine 57-27 victory over Bettsville. After getting beat by a good Huron team, St. Joe came back to beat Calvert, with perhaps their best game of the year. The girls kept up that pace by beating Clyde for the second time, before losing to non-conference foe, Norwalk St. Paul.

St. Joe had another good performance in beating Margaretta 49-41. Margaretta had beaten them by 19 points earlier in the season. The winning streak didn't last long as the girls proceeded to lose their three remaining games. The girls ended the season with a 7-11 overall record and a 4-8 record in the S.B.C.

DIRECTORS

The directors of the school put all their knowledge and experience into the difficult job of producing a magnificent performance. They were frequently found behind the scenes holding the cast together. They contributed to the students successes by adding needed finishing touches. They help complete the scenes by offering expert direction and working their hardest to provide a christian attitude among the cast members. The directors certainly deserved an Academy Award for their excellent work in direction.

Award Winning Directors

"The 1979-80 school year has been both peaceful and frustrating. Peaceful because many of the changes that were made in previous years are now accepted. There is, therefore, less confusion and conflict. Frustration exists because not all goals that were established have been met. At the time, all students still don't study and read enough. Some are still too quiet, some disrespectful, etc. While things are good, they could be better. Having been principal all four years of the class of 80's stay makes it difficult to access their gains. Like any growth it is hard to determine when viewed little by little day by day. Any judgement on my part of this class best wait until I can step back and look at it from a distance. There is though a belief, a glimpse of which I could see in the change from the 78-79 year to the 79-80 year, for the future that I will share. The class of 80 can achieve great things academically and spiritually. They can be leaders, builders, participants, team players and Catholics. They are capable of honesty, respect, hard work, charity and love. Many of them demonstrate these daily, some occasionally, but all have. Whether it be 1, 5, 10, or 20 years from now, I believe that when they are allowed to grow with God's help and each others' support they will make the world a better place." . . . Mr. Larry Duwve

n Directing Another Successful Year

My favorite movie is 'Wait Until Dark' . . . My favorite actor and actress are urt Reynolds and Audrey Hepburn . . . The actor I don't like is Marlon rando, he gets a tremendous amount f money for a 15 minute performance . . . I like watching older movies 940's or earlier) that are shown on Ch. 0 . . ." Mr. Marty Smith

"My favorite movie is 'The Sound of Music' . . . I can't really say who my favorite actor or actress are since some are good in certain movies and then in others not so good . . . The actress I can't stand is Barbra Streisand, I love her music and voice but can't stand to look at her . . ." Fr. Bill Kubacki

ACTOR'S GUILDS

The variety of guilds that existed here at St. Joe gave the stars and co-stars a chance to get involved. Participation was the key that made each guild a success and gave every member some fun-filled experiences. Creative artists, intelligent honor society members, and dedicated student council leaders were always there on the set when a helping hand was needed. The historical club, business club, and mission club were also close by having bake sales to keep the actors going strong through a long hours of rehearsal. No matter which guild the actors chose, they were an important aspect in the award-winning movie.

As an active spirit club member, Jan Frederick works after school to make signs for the upcoming games. 2. Painting with water colors is just one thing Cindy Miller has to do as an art club member. 3. Sister Victor, advisor of the mission club, raises money by selling candy after school. 4. Laurie Bodnar displays the correct typing form she has learned in the business club. 5. The drama club gives Scott Zienta a chance to develop his acting skills. 6. Sister Boniface, student council and art club advisor, gives her time and talents to make her guilds work.

Student Directors

The theme of student council this year was "Allow Me to Grow". Sister Mary Boniface was the club's advisor. Their school year really started at the beginning of the summer, when they held weekly meetings to plan the coming year's activities. These included a Christmas dance, bringing back the juke box in the cafeteria and having bake-sales to raise money for the McDonald House in Cleveland. They also sponsored a respect week. On teacher appreciation day the members of student council ate breakfast and lunch with the teachers. For student appreciation day they made cup cakes for the whole student body. The Heart Association received their help during heart month and some members volunteered to be instructors at Safety Town this coming summer. Inspired by a new idea, some of the students dressed up like lepricons while student council members sold dill pickles for St. Patrick's day.
Student council did a lot to bring more unity and spirit to the school.

"Let The Good Times Roll"

The spirit shines in the students of St. Joseph Central Catholic and leading the way was the spirit club, supervised by Miss Patricia Hill. SJCC has always been well known for the spirit electricizing through its honored halls. The spirit club was responsible for creating strong spirit by cluttering the walls with victory signs, having parades through the halls and cheering on their number one team at the games.

MIDDLE RIGHT: The Spirit Club gathers before the St. Wendelin game to cheer on their number one team.

"Pennies From Heaven"

The main prupose of the mission club was to raise money for the poor of New Guinea and other mission places. Sister Mary Voctor, the club's advisor, lead the way in all the money-making activities. The club sponsored a Mardi Gras during fourth period. During this celebration the students performed many different activities to raise money for the missions. Sister Mary Victor also sold candy at lunch and after school with the profits going into the mission fund.

Secretaries Organize The Script

The purpose of the secretarial careers club was to give the senior girls who plan on making a career in the secretarial field more experience. Serving as faculty secretaries, they did such work as running off tests, typing masters, and composing letters. They also did a lot of unnoticed work for the school such as typing, and mailing out the newsletter. The club's advisor was Mrs. Gabel.

Business Club Cooperates For "A Few Dollars More"

Business Club directed many activities such as the jean dance which featured "The 4-S Rent-a-Dance" and door prizes sponsored by Radio Shack. They managed the concessions for the St. Joe Invitational Wrestling meet and also had chip and candy sales during noon hour. The proceeds went to the scholarship fund and toward new curtains for the stage. The club's advisor was Mrs. Gabel.

Art Club — Big Box Office Attraction

Right from the beginning of the year the young art students as well as the more experienced prepared their masterpieces for upcoming shows. One of the biggest of these shows was the competition sponsored by the Fremont Federation of Women. Among the winners were Lynn Foos — 3rd place in oils and acrylics, Kathleen Courtney — 3rd place in watercolors and Laura Foos — 1st and 3rd places in pencil and ink.

Every art student was also a member of the art club, which was under the expert supervision of Sister Mary Boniface. The art club was entertained and enlightened by a variety of speakers like Robert Mazur and Charles Billat. The members also visited many art exhibits. Art students were also kept busy by making signs for the Fremont Recreation Department and for the St. Joseph Central Catholic festival.

Searching For The "Lost Horizon"

The goal of the historical club this year was to raise enough money to take a weekend trip to Mohican State Park. They raised this money by collecting monthly dues and by sponsoring bake sales.

Meetings were held every other Wednesday in Room 205. This room was filled with all types of artifacts which were found during some of the digs made by club members. The club's advisor was Mr. William Smith.

BOTTOM RIGHT: Tim Cullen, Jeff Hoffman, Jack Hoffman and Roger Darr show Sue Ackerman what would have happened if she would have misbehaved in early America.

Drama Club Creates Future Celebrities

The scene was set as the drama club took the stage for their production of "Toga, Toga, Toga," a take-off from "Animal House." The members portrayed their roles as if they were real actors under the supervision of Mrs. Valerie Myers.

The club's main goal this year was to raise enough money to purchase new curtains for the stage.

To see how college students perform, the club attended the Shakespearean play "A Mid-Summer's Night Dream" at Heidelburg College. In the future they plan on attending other performances.

CENTER: Annette Mayle, Lauretta Miller, John Byers, Scott Tiell portray their rolls in "Toga, Toga, Toga" as they argue about having Alpha Beta house condemned.

Directors Of Tomorrow

The future teachers club was a very challenging and rewarding experience for all the students involved. Once a week, the members had an opportunity to tutor the grade school children of Saint Joseph Elementary School, which prepared them for their future roles in society as teachers. This experience gave the members the satisfaction that they had helped in the learning process of these children.

During the year, the members went on numerous field trips to other schools. These observations helped to further their interest in their chosen vocation. The future teachers helped shape the teachers of tomorrow.

No "Absent-Minded Professors"

The national honor society was made up of sophomores, juniors and seniors who had maintained a 93 average and also showed the qualities of leadership, responsibility and service. The highlight of this year was the induction ceremony which was in church. The club had a new advisor this year and Sister Mary Bernarda did a super job.

Preparing For The Final Scenes

The cast members retired to the dressing room to prepare for the closing scenes. Numerous memories went on living in their hearts and minds long after the scene had been completed. The actors and actresses have now moved on to a new character with a new script. They will always remember the fans, the publicity, and the excitement, along with the frustrations and hard work that went into the production of this movie. The critics liked what has been produced even though the film has not yet ended. The final scene will be shot this spring and will be coming soon to a theater near you.

Pictures appearing in the filmstrip below: 1. Janet Ochs and Lisa Luc stand in their correct places to make the band formation complete. 2. Mr. Duwve along with some of the student body enjoy an exciting basketball game. 3. Selecting another song from the new juke box are Sherrie Mayle and Lori Gabel. 4. Annette Kuzma compares notes with Theresa Ochs during marriage class. 5. Laurie Bodnar dazzles the student body with her award-winning majorette routine. 6. Rona Mumford puts all her effort into bumping the ball over the net.
